LOOKED IN VAIN FOR MOVEMENT FOR WILKINS'S AIRSHIP

People Forgot It Was All Fool's Day and Many Got Fooled.

Apparently unmindful of the fact that yesterday was "All Fools' Day." numbers of persons went out to the old baseball park, near the Main Street car barns. at 12 o'clock sharp, to see the wonderful Mr. Jonathan Wilkins's new device for ascending into the air without the aid

Those who gathered discussed the matthe Baltimore and Richmond Christian ter quietly among themselves, and finally dispersed wondering if anything untoward been some dissatisfaction among some had overtaken Mr. Wilkins to prevent him from making his ascension.

What time do you think the flying will take place?" asked a young, innocent looking gentleman of one older said 12 o'clock," was the than himself.

"The paper said 12 o'clock," was the reply, and drawing his watch from his vest pocket, the latter observed; "It is past that hour now."

A representative of The Times-Dispatch, who was "on to the joke," had just alighted from a west-bound car, and apparently grow deeply interested in the corversation, in which he modestly joined. "Do you suppose there can be any mistake as to the place?" asked one gentleman of the newspaper man.

"That may be." was the reply. "It is possible that Mr. Wilkins may leave the earth from the Broad Street baseball grounds," continued the latter. But the others would not have it so. Several of them protested that the paper stated clearly that the ascension, would take place at noon, near the Main Street car barns, and after waiting and wondering for more than thirty minutes those who had looked in vain for Mr. Wilkins left for their homes, not entirely satisfied as to the cause of the failure of Mr. Wil-kins to show up.

The Makers' Greatest Clothing Achievements.

Our ambition to excel knows no limit. The foundation stone of this business is improvement over the accepted order of things. Ready-to-wear clothing is what it is to day because we've studied and wrought to bring it to its present perfection. The G.-R. clothing proposition is the straight out and out proposition of the best clothing you can buy at a price lower than like quality goods can be had anywhere-and with the additional recommendation of the distinctive characteristic difference in the goods and making that constitutes Gans-Rady Clothing supremacy. The argument for trade is in our favor with thinking men. And just a word-we've convinced more of the young men this season that we know their wants best than in any previous season in our history,
